ELECTION DAY. artial Returns in City as Made up to I p. m. State Ticket Slaughtered but Able to Save County and Congressional.

The election passed off quietly yesterday but earnestly. It had been estimated by some that as the registration showed 6.390 oters, the votes polled would show over 6,000. The vote, however, was but little over 4,000. This was quite a surprise to all interested in the election, and fellows getting majorities in tue city were expecting more votes and hence more encouraging majorities. The voting was decidedly one sided,

Robinson for governor was well known to be the favorite. He was supposed to be the favorite two to one, but in some of the wards, according to the pro rata count, he was the favorite three and four to one. This means that there were comparatively few unmarked Republican votes. It seemed to be the day for Republicans to scratch. They did it with a striking unanimity on the state ticket and the Democrats made no objections. They did not challenge of that kind.

While the Republicans were decidedly "off" on the state ticket, they were more loyal to the county ticket and Col. Hallo well according to them an old time vote. The majorities for this part of the ticket in the city are quite equal to any estimate made yesterday morning. Some of the Contract Room.

In the clerk fight many of the Coates Democrats were angry and quietly proceeded to vote for Luting They were not willing to be led around by the leaders' combination, and in a most emphatic way kicked vigorously. It is estimated that Luling has in the city 1,700 majority.

In the fight for county attorney, Sam Amidon was supposed to be in the race, but the vote don't show much of it. His supposed support went to Morris. the Republican, and Atwood of the Alliance. It was somewhat amusing to see Amidon's banners. Among the most striking and pathetic was "The Laboring Friend." It created quite a stir when noticed and coupled with the reflection that Amidon had always been a great friend of the laboring man.

"Remember Ebey," was a banner that attracted much attention and called for considerable comment. At times it was supposed to mean to remember the candidate for probate judge, but at other times E. E. The following from Grand Reporter W.

P. Cole, of Texas, fully explains the situation in the Lone Star state: "Have just finished my report to the supreme reporter for term ending June 30, 1800, and find we have made a net increase of 1,659 during the year. There are seven lodges that had to be suspended for failure to pay their per capita tax, all of which will reinstate ex-cept perhaps two. Counting one hundred members for these five lodges will give us as the net increase for the year 1,759. There has been but one year that the order in this jurisdiction had a larger increase, and that was the year ending June 30, 1880. We will have four representatives in the next supreme lodge. on the old Newburg and Cochecton turnpike. In the center of a rather demure looking stone wall, of which it is a part, stands a rock whose history is as yet unwritten, and lies buried with the dead of many generations. The farm within the boundaries of which it rests is in a valley at an elevation of some 1,300 feet above the level of the sea, forming in consequence a most appropriate pedestal on which to stand.

At first sight it probably would not attract more than a passing notice, but it is when a second and closer observation is made that the wonderful and delicate hand of nature is seen, both in its composition and smoothly chiseled sides. In size at is nearly 500 cubic feet, shaped very much like an orange, and weighing 80,000 pounds, or forty tons, and so nicely balanced on a table of rock as to be easily set in motion from either the north or south side, yet the combined strength of a hundred men, without artificial appliances, could not dislodge it from its present position.

Its body is composed of a loose and soft sandstone, in which are imbedded numberless round and flinty pebbles of a diamond like hardness. In all the a yard. valley where it is situated it is the only specimen of its class, around and under it the stones being of an entirely different structure. The table on which it rests is a bard stone, nearly as firm and close grained as the blue stone cut from the quarries of Sullivan county. Whence it migrated or the date of its pilgrimage-for it is supposed to have been lodged there by some volcanic eruption during the Drift period—lies not in the old tradition of the county.

Some of the adminantine publics that cluster thickly on its surface have been ground off and split in two, probably by the tremendous attrition suffered in its passage. The only relative specimen of its kind in North or South America is in the northern part of Canada. Its sides and corners have also been ground to almost emery fineness by powerful elements.

It stands alone, a silent monument of a departed age, erected by nature to commemorate the mighty forces which have been and are ever working for the improvement of the earth, for the profit and benefit of man,-New York Press.

Lamar often told me of The Atlanta Constitution, I said in Grady's hearing that Col. Lamar was a great lover of horses and horse races. What!" exclaimed Grady, "does Lamar take interest in out of door sports?" "Oh, yes," I replied, "and he knows the pedigree of every famous race horse the world over." "Then," said Grady, "I shall after my opinion of him; there's always some good in the man who loves out of door sports."-Brunswick (Ga.)

Are You Five Feet Eight Inches Tall? What is there about the figures 5 feet 8 inches that is so attractive to policemen? Did you ever notice a description of a drowned man who was not just that tall? Maybe you have, but just notice and see if the vast majority of them do not conform to that rule, and also are reported as wearing congress gaiters. Whether men measuring 5 feet 8 inches high and wearing congress gaiters are more prone to drowning than others, so far as is known, has not been determined, but it certainly is an odd suggestion which comes to the mind of many who constantly watch such cases .- New York

A Willy Cobbler,

A cobbler at Forfar, Scotland, who was an old offender, was sentenced to a fine or imprisonment. To be imprisoned he had to be carried to the jail at Perth. As he had business at Perth he expressed no unwillingness to go. When arrived about to be locked up he offered to pay the fine, which the governor was obliged to take. Then he demanded his fare back to Forfar, which the governor, after hesitating and looking at the law, found that he was obliged to pay. The fare alone amounted to five cents more than the fine imposed.—Ram's Horn.

It Is Easy to Manage Children if You Only Know How.

"You look worried, my dear," said Childers when he came home from the office the other day "What is the matter?"
"The children have been very tiresome today," replied Mrs. Childers wearily. "Is seems as if they would make me distract-

"Don't let 'em!" said Childers with considerable energy. "Don't let 'em ride over you. Just-Willie, don't talk when papa's talking-just deal with them gently but firm-Did you hear me, Willief-firmly, and you'll get along all-Silence, Willie, this instanti-all right. As for letting 'em worry—Don't pull on my pockets. Dick— letting 'em worry—Dick! don't pull on my pockets. I said—worry—Will you take your hands out or not? Now keep them out. You've broken a couple of cigars for me now, you - What's Willie making such a racket about, Annie! Great Scotti he's got my silk hat. Take it-hang it up high. Now, Dick, if you cry you'll havehigh. Now, Dick, if you cry you'll have—
Lord, they're both commenced. It does seem, Annie, 's if the minute I come into the house—I can't talk:—I can't think. Won't you take 'em off to bed? My gracious! I'll bet if I was home I'd"—
